USA TO HOST 1971 WORLD JR. CHAMPIONSHIPS; NOTRE DAME PICKED AS SITE NEXT APRIL 8TH.

FIE Paris Congress Awards Meet to AFLA;
Martini & Rossi to be Held Following Week

FIE CONGRESS REPORT by Norman Lewis

The annual Congress of the Federation Internationale D'Esgrime held in Paris on May 7th and 8th, has awarded to the Amateur Fencers League of America the holding of the World Junior Championships for 1971. The Championships will be held from April 8th to the 12th at the brand new Athletic and Convocation Center of the University of Notre Dame, in South Bend, Indiana. The 8.6 million dollar Center covers over 10 acres, all under one roof. The overall dimensions of the building are 630 by 750 feet and the height of each of the two domes is 75 feet. The Center is fully equipped for all sports including a six lane green Tartan indoor running track, several tennis courts, and an ice skating rink. Twelve hundred permanent seats can be increased to 4300 upon demand.

Making the successful bid for the United States were AFLA delegates Miguel A. deCapriles and Norman Lewis.

For fencers and officials there is the Morris Inn just adjacent to the fencing site for housing and subsistence. The cost for the housing will be $5.00 per person at three to a room. Meals will be an additional $3.00 per day.

The AFLA will be obligated to pay for the fare and housing of six FIE officials from Europe and one (M. Carl Schwende) from Canada. The FIE will supply two Class 3 Directors and the AFLA will have to furnish all other required officials.

The particular scheduling of these World Junior Championships will enable many of the top international stars to remain here in the United States and participate in next year's Martini and Rossi Challenge, which will be held in New York on April 16, 17, and 18. Thus it is hoped that U. S. fencers will get a great opportunity for top competition.

Miguel A. de Capriles and Norman Lewis at their posts, representing the Amateur Fencers League of America at the Paris Congress of the Federation Internationale d'Esgrime.

During the Congress there were numerous other regulatory changes enacted with respect to the seeding of individuals and teams in official fencing events. The compulsory use of the new flat point in foil will become effective January 1, 1972. The full text of these changes will be published in AMERICAN FENCING as soon as the AFLA has adopted them.

The United States was awarded two new Class 2 FIE directors, Dr. Marius Valsamis and Richard Gradkowski. Applicants for examination as internationally accredited directors must receive written approval from the AFLA before taking the FIE examination. No professionals will be accepted as FIE Class 2 or 3 directors.

The 1971 World Fencing Championships will be held in Vienna, Austria, from July 4th to July 17th. Our own U.S. Nationals will have to be appropriately scheduled to avoid the possibility of conflict.

The two day Congress of the FIE was held at the Automobile Club, Place dela Concorde, with a closing formal dinner at the George V Hotel.

How is saber to continue to build with the best talent available? And further to make that talent reach the greatest heights of development? Frankly, I do not have an answer. But sometimes the best answers can come when the problem is brought into clearer focus.

THE WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP TO THE AFLA

years ago the AFLA hosted the World Championships at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. The event was a spectacular success but was connected with the organizing now of the staggering burden it placed on the shoulders of the contributors and labor as well as money which it required. The period is, however, over and a new era shall have that opportunity. I would like to announce that the League has elected the "Under-Twenty World Champions" for 1971. The competition will be held in Philadelphia over 26 countries to our shores from April 8 - 12 at the University of Pennsylvania. We are delighted with the recognition which the F.I.E. has given us. It is another significant step in the development of the League and the development of American fencing.

On the occasion of the vote of thanks to Hugo Castello and the arrangements during the visit to Minsk, U.S.S.R. And, we are indebted to Miguel de Capriles, President and currently Executive Director of the F.I.E., and Norman represented the League at the closing of the F.I.E. last May. These men were responsible for persuading the F.I.E. to make the award to the League. Norman had formally presented the award. But perhaps our highest compliment should go to the University of Pennsylvania and Mike De Cicco whose generous donation of facilities, personnel and resources made possible the submission of the League to the Championships.

It is in the near future we are calling on you for contributions of both money and time to make the 1971 Tournament an event in the annals of international fencing.

ESTABLISHMENT OF NATIONAL FENCING CENTERS

The United States Olympic Fencing Sport Committee has designated Dr. Paul Todd Makler, former President of the AFLA, to spearhead a task force of representatives of the AAHPER, NFCAA and AFLA whose mission is to establish at one or more colleges or universities permanent facilities and programs for the training of students majoring in physical education in the art of fencing as a part of the formal curriculum. A secondary goal is to arrange for these institutions to be designated as Olympic Fencing Development Centers whereat major competitions and special events such as summer training camps might be held. If successful not only students but practicing physical education teachers and athletic coaches would be eligible to participate in an expanded program.

By increasing the availability of secondary school teachers equipped to teach and coach fencing at least at the basic skills level we will have created one of the necessary conditions for broadening participation in our sport.

HONORARY MEMBERS ELECTED

With the conclusion of the tenth annual Martini & Rossi International Invitational Fencing Tournament at the New York Athletic Club, the best ever, it is entirely fitting that the AFLA express its appreciation in a tangible way to the company and its representatives who have made this premier competition possible. Accordingly, the League has determined to honor the two men whose support and attendance has never failed us. Upon Gregoire Cavalcini and Bruno Torti we have bestowed our Honorary Life Membership Award. Congratulations and thank you!

MARION VINCE MEMORIAL TROPHY

The "Under - 19" National Championships has lacked an award for the winner of the women's foil event. Friends of Marion Vince, one of our greatest and most gracious women fencers, have gathered together to honor her memory by presenting to the League a permanent trophy for this competition. The donation is entirely appropriate to Marion's interests and will serve as an inspiring memorial. It is accepted with great pleasure.

WORLD UNIVERSITY GAMES

by A. E. Simonson

The final qualifying competition for the World University Games team was held April 25 and 26 at the new Athletic and Convocation Center on the campus of the University of Notre Dame, South Bend, Indiana. Fifty seven candidates competed and the following were selected to represent the United States.

Foil: 1. Walter Krause; 2. Dan Cantillon; 3. Joe Shamash; 4. Tony Kestler; 5. John Nonna.

Epee: 1. John Nadas; 2. John Hanzalik; 3. Dan Wigodsky; 4. Edward Gwazda; 5. Michael Vitoux.

Saber: 1. Bruce Soriano; 2. Robert Dow; 3. Paul Apostol; 4. Jeff Tishman; 5. Stanley Lekach.

Women: 1. Ruth White; 2. Sally Pechinsky; 3. Blythe Devon; 4. Kathy Reichert; 5. Marcia Bennett.

The Collegiate Sports Council calculates that the expenses of the trip, transportation to and from New York, room and board at the Games, etc., figures to be $425.00 per person. In view of the fact that the Collegiate Sports Council has only approved four competitors in each weapon, we will have to ask the Collegiate Sports Council for permission to take the fifth person. In view of the fact that the fifth competitor in each event would have to pay his or her way totally and may not be used during the competition, it is the feeling of the committee that the fifth person should not be selected unless he or she fully understands that he or she would have to fully undertake the expenses of this trip with the distinct possibility of not being used in the competition.

The World University Games will be held in Torino, Italy, from August 26 to September 6, 1970.

CANADIAN TOURNAMENT

Our good neighbors in Canada will again be sponsoring some exciting fencing tournaments this fall and all United States fencers are cordially invited to send in their entries. Over the Labor Day weekend the Province of Quebec Fencing Federation will again be running their "Tournoi Terre des Hommes" in all four weapons. This popular event was first started in 1939 and has seen many of our top stars compete. In Ontario, the Sixteenth Annual Canadian Heroes Memorial will also feature competitions in all four arms, on the weekend of October 10 and 11. U. S. fencers who have been up to Canada before know that the fencing and the hospitality are well worth the trip.

Coaches Corner

by Archie Simonson

matter of increasing concern to me is the problem of many school administrations expending money by putting certain sports, such as Fencing, on a Club basis. Many schools offer Fencing on a Club basis at the expense of and more are considering it by the way from the present Varsity status or Fencing only on a Club basis. The administrators believe that the students' interests thereby be met at little expense to the school. As a Varsity sport, Fencing would be funded as to equipment, travel expenses, coach's salary, etc. As a Club basis, expenses will all be undertaken by the individual participants. Accordingly, there are only students whose interest would be those who are themselves "pay their own way". That is to say those students, who can afford to purchase their own equipment, pay for their own transportation and housing while on the road, in some cases, pay for their own lessons, can enjoy this sport. The reason for the inequality of such a program is obvious, because it completely excludes the vast majority of the students who cannot afford any more expenses while at school. More specifically, would it be the case of the underprivileged student attending college only because of the present governmental grant and program, which incidentally do not provide for funds for extracurricular activities, should these students or any student be discriminated against? All students should be given the opportunity to participate in any program offered in any school if this democratic right cannot be denied. The program, athletic or otherwise, should not be offered or included in the school's functions. I am not merely saying that fencing cannot be made available to all regardless of his or her ability. It should not be offered, I am saying, that if an entire athletic program is not offered whereby all the students can participate in one of the sports offered, there should not be any athletic program at all, including football, basketball and baseball.

The ordinary college student on campus is already discriminated against because the sports of football, basketball, baseball and hockey, swimming and track are not available to him due to the fact that he, in high school, was not allegedly a high school All-American champion, etc. in that particular sport. These so-called money-making sports are justified only if they support a total athletic program whereby the ordinary everyday student, male or female, can partake in some other sport whether or not they were high school champions or whether or not they even participated on a high school team. One of the few sports today that fulfills this need on campus is Fencing. This sport today, as a rule, is introduced to the student when he or she enrolls in college. The student's interest is ignited perhaps out of curiosity or out of sincere desire to participate in a sport in which he can represent his University in contests against other Universities. Many of these students never participated in athletics in this fashion. On the other hand many of them did participate in high school but, of course, did not achieve the level of expertise qualifying them for an athletic scholarship for one of the money-making sports. These students and all others I say again should not be discriminated against.

The University which fails to fully support and finance so-called minor sports, such as Fencing, in their athletic programs, I predict will be subject to student unrest and dissent. We have had enough of this so-called non-violence revolt. I believe it is far better if the University Administration and Athletic Directors recognize the problem before it gets out of hand and thereby undertake preventive measures rather than remedial measures. By doing this, perhaps the people in athletics will avoid the hardships and griefs that arise out of civil disorder.

It is the duty and responsibility of all of us in Fencing to bring this matter to the attention of all the high school and college administrators and help them in establishing Fencing and other "So-called" minor sports in their athletic programs.

HAVE EPEE — WILL TRAVEL

by Richard Gradkowski

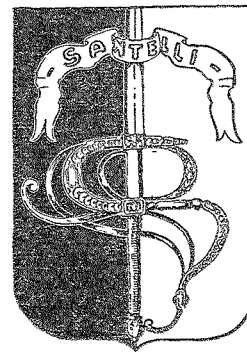

Paladin of TV fame had nothing on James Melcher of the New York Fencers Club. Posing as a mild mannered stockbroker during the week, Jamie regularly packs up his epees on weekends and is off for Europe to skewer some unsuspecting opponent. Naturally, instead of a stagecoach, he uses TWA.

In recent months, Jamie has competed in the Monal Challenge in Paris, the Huy International in Belgium, the London Martini, the Spreafico in Milan, the Heidenheim in Germany, and the Poitiers in France.

In the London Martini, he and Steve Netburn scored a double coup, taking third and second, respectively. (See our last issue of AMERICAN FENCING for the complete story.) Recently he placed eighth in the tough Poitiers meet and in the Heidenheim Epee he made the top 64 out of a huge field of over 300 entries.

A six foot tall, lanky, left hander, Jamie began fencing at Columbia University in his junior year. Upon graduation, he joined the New York Fencers Club and began studying with Michel Alaux, U. S. Olympic Coach. In 1963, Jamie made the Pan American team that competed in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

In his capacity as a broker, Jamie is a director of a small but growing airline, Air Indies, which flies DeHavilland Twin Otters between Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. This enables him to get an inside track on the advantages of air travel.

MIDWEST CHAMPIONSHIPS

by Anthony Zombolas

970 Midwest Championships were held in St. Louis, Missouri, at the Forest Park and drew an entry of over two competitors. In the foil event, champion Tony Zombolas staved off his charge by Keith Herbrechtsmeier from Parkside University (Kenosha), who defeated him in a fence off by 5-2. Tony Zombolas successfully defended his title in the epee event, while Keith Goering successfully defended his title in the sabre event. In a strong epee field, Frank Anger of Lawrence, Kansas, and David Division dominate the epee by a wide margin. In the foil event, Anne Cammack won her second title and gave her most convincing performance to date. Greg Shaw of Colorado, won two silver medals in the Under-19 events, is being coached by Sewall Shurtz, former Olympian, and National Foil Champion.

PACIFIC COAST UNDER 19 CHAMPIONSHIPS

by Mary Huddleson

Portland, Oregon, was the scene for the Pacific Coast Under-19 Championships on February 21 and 22. The Oregon Division organized the event in excellent fashion. Not only did they have good metallic strips and directors, but they also arranged local TV and newspaper coverage, and they even had a party on Saturday night. The Division was rewarded by seeing, for the first time, two of its fencers qualify for the National Championships.

Young Tim Taylor, a freshman at Oregon State University, qualified in all three weapons, while Tara Fichtl placed third in Women's Foil. Mike Nickless, Dave Orlando, and Blythe Devan turned in fine performances for Southern California. Indeed, most of the events were dominated by Southern California fencers, some of whom are almost "veterans" by now and will soon have to move on. There is a new crop of young fencers eagerly waiting and even pushing to take their places.

PACIFIC COAST SECTIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

by Mary Huddleson

The Pacific Coast Championships were held at UCLA in Los Angeles over Memorial Day week-end, May 29-31. Fencers from Arizona to Oregon participated in team and individual events. Team trophies changed hands in every weapon. In the individuals, however, Carl Borack from Southern Calif. retained his title in the foil and Helmut Resch from Northern Calif. repeated in the sabre. Blythe Devan from Southern Calif. emerged the victor from a very strong field in a nine-woman final. The young lady has previously won the Under-19 Sectionals and the Western Intercollegiate this season. The epee finals produced some surprises, as two C fencers, Clark Presson and Jay St. Clair took the top two honors, while the more experienced fencers knocked themselves out for the lesser standings.

NORTH ATLANTIC UNDER 19 SECTION CHAMPIONSHIPS

by Steve Sobel

With the next Under 20 World Championships scheduled to be held in the United States, and the knowledge that last year three of the four under 19 National champions were from the North Atlantic Section (Ruth White, Bruce Soriano, Paul Gaylor) and the fourth was tied for first (Scott Bozek), over 100 youngsters travelled to New Haven for a weekend of fencing and fun — and there was plenty of both to be had. The competition was extremely close in all weapons, and once again we anticipate a strong national showing from our Section qualifiers.

The Connecticut Division did an outstanding organizing job to make this event first rate, running the entire meet on copper strips at the New Haven YMCA, providing many excellent directors to assure good officiating throughout the two days of fencing, and arranging for congenial accommodations one block away for the fencers to get together and enjoy themselves as a fun loving group of teenagers during recreational hours. The Philadelphia Division will host the Under 19's next year.

Women's Foil: (26 entries): 1. Iza Farkas, 2. Debbie Cinnotti, 3. Ellen Sebring, 4. Nancy Iffland, 5. Nancy Murray, 6. Peggy Parson, 7. Pat Miller, 8. Allison Harwood, 9. Debbie Gunther.

commitment of this year's championship victory of Scott Bozek and Sally in epee and women's foil. Both young fencers from the Salem YMCA by Joe Pechinsky came through in epee. Then we had the popular repeat of Uriah Jones in foil and Tommy Sabber. Winning two years in a row for the championship is a major feat.

Why the happiest report is that the fencing was at the highest level seen. All the nine finalists maintained and good form and were thinking time. No spectacular stuff, just forward fencing of the kind we all are looking for. The stop thrust was missing so maybe someone has been listening to the "stop is dead" advice. Pechinsky clinched her victory when she was the only one with a chance to catch a possible fence off, had a severe leg cramp, dropped a bout to Connor and then couldn't complete one. Jay fenced better than we'd Second went to Cynthia Carter and Denise. Ruth White, defending second U. S. National champion didn't be working as confidently as last couldn't pull out a few close ones. Foil and epee events were slightly lengthy since they were fought on the strip and entry was limited to one or two weapons. The epee lacked Steve Netzer's past years champion and several other years finalists. But you can't take away from Scott Bozek, a finalist before, who in a three way fence at place took care of the increasing-Todd Makler and Ed Carfagno, one of the better performers in the 1969 World Championships. Scott is young, strong and he develops more subtly in his fencing good toe or low line moves he'll be more dangerous.

Sabber was really dominated by Tom in the final he only had one loss and a bout in gaining his second straight year's no doubt that his hand is in the moves better either on the attack or the retreat and he knows what to do. A triple tie for second was resolved on touches with second to Bob Dow, third to Todd Makler and fourth to Romulo Garbatini. It appeared that the general level of the saber was not as high as the capabilities of some of the contestants would have permitted. There seemed to be just too many attacks without reasonable preparation. The need for developing greater foot speed is not all there is to saber. The rest of the game requires good timing, variation of pace and, of course, sound preparation for the attack.

The foil was hard fought with many 5-4 bouts in the finals. Uriah Jones kept winning them and ended up with a 7-1 record. He was a tough guy all the way through and put the last touch over on his younger and speedier opponents. The best example was his beating Joe Cohen at 5-4 in his last bout — a loss would have put him into a fence off. Marty Lang was a strong second and his hard work over the past few years is showing up. Another Marty, that is Davis, took third on touches over Russell Goodman. There were some good bouts but we didn't see as much sustained high level fencing as we would have liked.

The Section extends special thanks to Jack Keane and Ralph Goldstein, who conducted officials' tests, ran an excellent directors clinic, and who along with Alex Orban, served as outstanding officials at the championships. The spacious facilities of Johns Hopkins University, along with the hospitality of the Maryland Division, made this a truly memorable weekend. Next year the newest Division of the AFLA — South Jersey — will host the North Atlantics.

John A. Rocsin and two of his pupils at the Lighthouse in New York. On the left is Nicholas and on the right Miss Charlotte Bicknell. Nick was formerly a bus driver and after only four lessons was very enthusiastic about his fencing. In his demonstration with the Maestro he executed second intention attacks and scored nicely with a counter-riposte.

NG FOR THE BLIND

Richard Gradkowski

On May 18th, a class of blind and visually handicapped men and women participated in a demonstration of fencing at the auditorium of the New York Center for the Blind at 111 East 59th Street, Manhattan. This exhibition was broadcast on NBC and covered by AP and the Daily News. Alex Orban, U.S. National Champion, attended and helped with the press and TV. The demonstrators performed the salute, a number of basic positions, and lunges and parries. Fencing Master John A. Rocsin.

John A. Rocsin, a recent addition to the Lighthouse training program, is a fencing master and mobility instructor who designed this unique course to help trainees develop self-reliance, coordination, good reflexes, motor control, and emotional control.

The Lighthouse goal is not to develop blind fencers, but to use fencing to develop the remaining senses as part of the trainee's orientation and mobility training, in which he learns how to travel independently and is aware at all times of his immediate environment. Maestro Rocsin states; "The aim of using fencing as a tool for teaching blind persons is not to develop fencers, but rather to use special fencing techniques in order to develop the senses of the clients". Nevertheless, he is working on applying fencing as a competitive sport for the blind and in the future hopes to see such a system perfected.

Fencing was instituted at the Lighthouse last summer for twenty one blind and visually impaired teenagers who participated in a special four weeks personal adjustment program. The summer program proved a success and fencing has now become an integral part of the sensory training program. Eight classes a week are taught.

Maestro Rocsin is originally from Oradea,

AMERICAN FENCING

Romania, and came to the United States in 1963. He was selected a member of the Romanian fencing team for the 1952 Olympics in Helsinki, and he also fenced in the Romanian Army. He is currently Varsity fencing coach of the Cooper Union Institute of Art and Science and is an accredited NFCAA Fencing Master.

The orientation and mobility program of the Lighthouse works with both congenitally and adventitiously blinded individuals of all ages and additional handicaps who wish to gain independence through professional instruction.

Orientation is defined as the process by which an individual forms an association between himself and objects within an environment. He learns to form a continuous mental map of his environment in terms of a general reference system such as compass points.

An individual who is oriented should, at any given instant, be able to answer the questions: "Where am I?", "In what direction am I facing?", "In what direction have I moved?". Only after he is oriented and able to form a mental map of his environment, can he be taught mobility skills.

Mobility is the process of moving from place to place within an environment. Protection and ease of movement is provided through the use of a particular mobility device, such as a prescription cane, guide dog, electronic device, or human guide.

Ideally, the well designed program grants the handicapped person a safe and efficient means of travel, a confidence and comfort with himself and his skills, and an ease and rapport with his environment. Fencing has been found to be excellent training for this type of program. The classical French school movements of "double-change of engagement" and the "doigte" resulting in "sentiment du fer", combined with the practice of basic positions and footwork fit well into the requirements of the work of rehabilitation.

"And if we thrive, promise them such rewards
As victors wear at the Olympic Games.

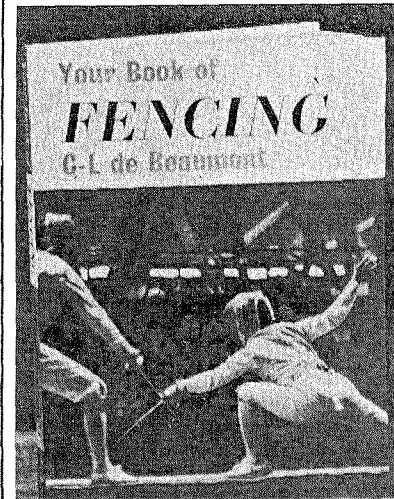

This may plant courage in their quailing breasts".
