U. S. WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM NAMED; STATE DEPT. TO VALIDATE PASSPORTS

Each Weapon To Have Own Captain; "American Fencing" Staff Members To Go

The Executive Committee of the A.F.L.A. announces the naming of the team to represent the United States in the World Fencing Championships being held in Havana, Cuba, from October 2nd to October 12th. The team was selected by the Executive Committee on the basis of rankings achieved in the 1969 National Championships, with allowance for an individual's availability.

The U. S. Department of State has agreed to validate passports for this event since the championships are considered to be a valuable aid in our overall Olympic development program.

Because of the lack of diplomatic relations between Cuba and the United States direct transportation is precluded, and the team will travel to Havana via Mexico City. The Executive committee has voted a stipend of $100.00 per competitor to help defray expenses.

American Fencing's feature editor Dan Lyons, a Washington D. C. investment consultant, has been designated "Chief of Mission" and will have overall responsibility for the operations of the team. Feature editor Richard Gradkowski will also accompany the team as Press Officer. Mr. Lyons was instrumental in our successful negotiations with the Dept. of State in obtaining permission for this trip.

Don DeChaine of Los Angeles, who did such a splendid job in Winnipeg and in Mexico City, has been again appointed Armorer.

Emily Johnson of San Francisco will be Women's Team Manager and Dr. Marius Valsamis of New York will be team Physician.

In a departure from the usual practice of having one team Captain, the Executive Committee has decided to designate a separate Captain for each weapon squad.

Coaches selected to accompany the team are Ed Lucia of New York, Lajos Csizsar of Philadelphia, Delmar Calvert of Los Angeles, and Mel Nord, also of Los Angeles. Others in the official party will be Stan Sieja, Hugo Castello, and Dr. Tibor Nyles, who will represent the United States on the Directoire Technique.

FENCERS ON TV

Our newest National Champion, Ruth White, and Robert Russell, National Foil Champion '65, appeared as guests on the television program "To Tell the Truth" accompanied by Ann O'Donnell of Salle Santelli. The program format features a quiz by a panel of experts who attempt to detect the "real" national champion among other mystery guests.

Produced by the Metromedia organization, the show was aired in the New York City area via Channel 5 on September 29th, and thereafter will be televised nationally over the network.

THE ROLE OF THE EAR IN FENCING

by Csaba Elthes

many fencers will be surprised the role of the ear in fencing.

is an art in which technique, sical ability, stamina and tempo ave an important role.

ld have thought that the ear has e. An amusing and unique thing so. Fact: The finished fencer has forementioned qualities plus a nd the good ear I speak of is to that of the musician. In layer with a "tin ear" can play e knows technically. The fencer ar plays the same way: techniar musician will never be able the Tin Ear fencer will never ional, either. It is not 3ue Note" in music. The notes om "between" the keys. The ot really there but you can The Tin Eared fencer is easy use he always plays the same at is written on the score.

ractice, experience shows that r with a good ear can beat better technician. In the same ear gives a dancer, the ability changing rhythms of music, same way the ear enables a o change his rhythm in an ange of tempo is the greatest n of the truly great fencer.

; small example. The opponent with his footwork. The fencer ar can hear these sounds and into basic rhythms. It then o to give a contra rhythm or ythm and disturb the oppon- ng, he will more than likely

The good ear is a quality that is born in a person. If a pupil doesn't have a good ear, it can easily be determined by a coach (who has a good ear) that he will never be a great fencer. Happily, there a relatively few supremely Tin Ears.

As in music, where a professor must develop the pupil's ear, the fencing coach must do likewise for his beginning fencer. After the basics have been put into his beginning fencer. After the basics have been put into his motion, this development is only possible with the "moving" lesson. If this is imparted to the pupil correctly, even a beginning competitor with modest technique can exert a personality and begin to "compose" fencing "music."

This composing ability is what develops his real personality. The fabled Hungarians for example. It was possible to recognize each man by his motion alone. Even a layman could tell at a glance who it was without the competitor raising his mask. Each had the distinguishing Hungarian traits—light footwork, sharp blade control, etc.—and yet it was each one's individual sense of rhythm that distinguished him and made him recognizable.

For those who are afraid — especially amongst my current pupils — that they are suspected of Tin Ears, I must relate the example of one of the greatest sabreurs of all, Aladar Gerevich. He won seven Olympic Gold Medals and heaven knows how many World, European and Hungarian titles. He did not have a Tin Ear. He had a Lead Ear.

The Ear, More important than many think. And perhaps Rudi Karpati, who is so conversant with music, would like to take up the pen and tell us more.

FROM CANADA

by Carl Schwende,

Canadian Fencing Association

The name of Joe de Capriles will never be forgotten in Canada. There was a time when Canada was struggling for recognition in fencing circles and in those days we could always count on Joe. We looked on him as an outstanding official, a dedicated competitor, and a friend. No job was ever too much trouble for him to undertake, no request ever too little, for him to consider. On many occasions we felt we would have liked to have Joe here in Canada.

Joe has settled by arbitration many points which came up during the past two decades and, with such men at the helm, any organization will flourish. I had known Joe personally for approximately twenty years and my only regret is that I have had only twenty years of personal association with him. In this connection a little episode comes to mind; In 1952 or 53 when I went to New York, I had the misfortune to lose my fencing gear and Joe completely outfitted me with some of his own and some borrowed equipment from friends. Then, after I had been placed in the same pool and decisively trounced by him, he just smiled and said "Better luck next time with your own equipment!"

We in Canada would like to pay our sincerest tribute to this great gentleman and friend, and all of Canada feels the deepest regret over his loss but, at the same time, we can also give the assurance that the name of Joe DeCapriles will live on in Canadian fencing.

FROM AUSTRALIA

by Prof. J. Beck

On behalf of the members of the Australian Academy of Fencing, I am writing to express our deepest sympathy to the fencers of the U.S.A. on the death of Mr. Jose de Capriles.

Mr. de Capriles was well known to many Australian fencers and all who met him will remember him as a great and tireless worker for the sport.

I was shocked to learn of the death of Mr. Jose R. de Capriles in the last issue of American Fencing. I had the occasion to follow his work and to appreciate it and his wide knowledge through your publication.

JOSE R. de CAPRILES

by Lou Shaff

I would like to share a memory of Joe. About thirteen years ago, Joe's youngest son, Pepe, died. It affected all of us who knew the family, because little Pepe had the delightful charisma of his father.

On visiting the bereaved family, we were hard put to offer comfort in the face of such a tragedy. Joe mentioned that it is always hard to accept the passing of one in early youth. I offered the philosophical concept that in this infinite time and space through which we pass, the difference between seven and seventy years is, in fact, quite small. The important thing is to have known love, to love and to be loved in return. And surely young Pepe had known this love.

Joe seemed genuinely grateful to accept this thought and I have always marked it as the one little offering I was able to make to a man who had given so much to so many, so willingly.

Now it behooves all of us to accept the same though in reference to the father of little Pepe; the important thing is that he knew love.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

column I want to share with you and programs for the long term of our sport.

We have by now become aware of the repeating circle of limited and relatively small membership which inscribes the growth of American fencing. Lacking the requisite substantial capacity, we have been unable to provide the teacher training or sustained programs of the overwhelming success we have had in the past. This is attributable to the efforts of some of our dedicated Divisional leaders. But their efforts are not enough to build fencing into a major activity engaged in on a large scale throughout the country. And, unless we develop along such popular lines, we are unable to attract the talent, the money, and financial support necessary for American fencing to gain a place of prominence in the world's fencing.

To maintain and improve the level of our fencing in future Olympiads, the Olympic Committee and affiliations have offered the sports officials of each Olympic sport an opportunity to submit specific programs for their development of their centennial, the Olympic Development Committee recommends to the Board of the U.S.O.C. appropriations to support such programs. With the assistance of Norman Lewis, the American Fencing Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation has submitted a proposal, which, if implemented over the next three years of the present century, could result in the training of high school and college fencers and the exposure of perhaps thousands of competitors to fencing and the benefits of League

The AAHPER is a division of the National Education Association. Its nationwide membership includes high school and college sport coaches and teachers of physical education, both men and women. The heart of its proposal is the holding of six regional instruction clinics each year in various areas of the country offering in-service training programs for high school and college teachers and coaches. Instruction would be provided in the art of teaching men's and women's foil, and, in the second and third years, advanced courses would be offered in epee and saber fencing. Approximately 100 participants would be expected to attend each of these clinics.

Each participating teacher would be required, as a condition of receiving an appropriate certificate of completion of training, to arrange a local clinic in his area for fellow instructors and coaches. Participants in the local clinics would be encouraged to attend the following season's regional clinics for more advanced professional training.

With the cooperation of the AAHPER and associated organizations, the newly-trained instructors would become the nuclei of programs in fencing to be introduced into the physical education curricula of schools and colleges. The capstone of such programs would be the organization of intramural and inter-school competitions.

Another feature of the AAHPER proposal, to take place in each of the second and third years of the program, is the organization of three "sport camps" for student competitors and teachers. A total of approximately 600 high school age boys and girls who appear to have the potential to develop into outstanding competitors would be invited to attend.

The U. S. Olympic Committee is being asked to contribute the sum of $50,000 to finance the entire three-year project.

The AFLA has endorsed this proposal and added detail and substance to the program.

As its contribution, the League will undertake to arrange for fencing masters, coaches and amateur coaches to provide the instruction at the clinics and "sport camps." We will also arrange for some of our leading fencers to participate in lessons, demonstration bouts and judging clinics. Through local divisions, we will offer facilities, equipment and experienced personnel who can assist in the organization and operation of programs. Finally, most of the instructional material and films will be supplied directly by the national office of the League.

If approved and funded by the USOC, the AAHPER proposal may well be the most dramatic program ever undertaken in the history of American fencing.

We have made two additional and more modest requests to the U. S. Olympic Development Committee.

First is a proposal to support the annual Martini-Rossi International Invitational Tournament in the amount of $5,000 in each of the next three years. This tournament has been and will continue to be the most significant international event held in the United States. With the addition of a Women's Individual Foil Competition the Martini-Rossi continues to grow in size and stature. Next year we plan to add a directing and judging clinic to the schedule and provide an opportunity for some of our officials to obtain or improve their international rating.

The final request is for $5,000 in each of the next three years to send abroad a full team in each weapon to one or more international meets. Success in the Olympics is in large measure a function of sufficient prior exposure to and experience in major international competition. The funds would enable our candidates for the 1972 Games to become "combat ready."

Turning from the Olympic Development Committee proposals, our next ambitious development plan calls for the establishment of a National Fencing Academy where physical education teachers, coaches and persons interested in becoming professional fencing masters may go for training. The Academy would be staffed with qualified masters and offer courses leading to various levels of certification. With the cooperation of high school and college educational institutions and organizations, and approval of state departments of public instruction, the Academy would be accredited and its graduates recognized throughout the country. This concept has brought enthusiastic response from organizations associated with college and high school athletics.

FOUR ELECTED TO HELMS HALL OF FAME

After the July issue had gone to press we learned that, in addition to Ed Lucia, three more fencing "greats" were elected to the Helms Hall of Fame in Los Angeles. They are: Jan Lee York Romary, who fenced in every Olympiad from 1948 to 1968 and whose competitive record as a champion may never again be equalled in this country, Alvar Hermanson, for his outstanding coaching achievements from 1926 to the present—that's 43 years, and Jose R. deCapriles (1912-1969), former president of the AFLA, deputy president of the FIE, four times Olympic team member, and editor and co-founder of AMERICAN FENCING.

STEVE NETBURN - 1969 NATIONAL EPEE CHAMPION

by Dan Lyons

Epee champion is a tall, hand-k-haired New Yorker. An en-vibrant personality, he speaks as powerfully and with purpose. Now years old he began fencing at University in 1961. Transferring iversity of Pennsylvania in his year he developed rapidly, win-Eastern Intercollegiate epee title second in the NCAA champion-g his senior year.

duating with a B. A. in Economics he accepted a graduate research p at the University of South-England. Fencing frequently in ssions and in international meets, g progress was marked by his chievement:

First in British International Epee Championship. Member of Three Weapon and Epee teams which won the British championships.

1967 Third in Martini International Epee in London. Seventh in U. S. nationals and members of Csiszar team, winner of U.S. team championship.

1968 Sixth in U. S. Nationals and again member of Csiszar national championship team. Selected member of U.S. Olympic Team.

1969 First U.S. Nationals.
First North Atlantic Sectionals.

Steve's greatest thrill in fencing was making the Olympic team and he can't forget how near and yet how far he was from getting into the Olympic finals. His aspiration is to win a gold medal in the Olympics or World Championships. If his fencing style which resembles that of some of the European epeeists is any indicator, he should have a good chance to realize that ambition. He goes to the attack continually. Typical of his aggressive style were his two quick touches against Paul Pesthy in the deciding bout for the national championship. First was a quick touch to the knee and then a touch to the ankle. His willingness to move and to press makes his game exciting for the spectators.

Steve comes from a family of four children, a sister and two brothers. His youngest brother, thirteen years of age is the only one taking up fencing. His mother takes care of the family while his father works as executive Vice President of a securities firm. Steve is single and says he still isn't tied down. During the past year he has been teaching with the special services group at a Manhattan Junior High School. This has been no easy task since many of the students have little command of English and minimal reading skills. Knowing our new champion, that is the kind of challenge that he would accept.

RUTH WHITE - 1969 WOMEN'S NATIONAL CHAMPION

by Dan Lyons

The youngest to have ever won our national championship is Ruth White. A left hander, 5' 6½" tall, weighing 125 lbs. and just two weeks short of her eighteenth birthday, she won a convincing victory, outdistancing her rivals by a substantial margin throughout the entire tournament.

Ruth started her fencing career, as so many others have, through an introductory fencing class at a Baltimore YWCA at the age of thirteen. Just fencing for fun she entered and won the Maryland Open that year. She began making her mark in local Baltimore and Washington meets but first burst into the national fencing scene in 1968. Her record speaks for itself.

Ruth is one of those few who possess great quickness, both in hand and foot, reacting instinctively to her opponent's actions. She applies constant pressure as she moves forward relentlessly, usually scoring a fast touch. Adapting easily to changes of distance she seems to have no difficulty in moving back a step to parry and riposte. If the action is one involving a series of parries, ripostes, counter parries and counter ripostes she carries on to score when most of her adversaries quit.

The composure and confidence of our new champion is truly notable. When you watch her fence you can sense that she has no fear and believes she can win. Ruth tells us that winning the championship was her greatest thrill and she aspires to making the team going to the next World Championships.

Ruth White has two brothers and her father is the Supervisor of Industrial Arts in the Baltimore Public School system. Her mother is a remedial reading teacher and takes a special interest in her daughter's fencing. As if fencing isn't enough, Ruth has also been studying violin for five years and has been a member of the Maryland Youth Symphony for the past three years. In addition she spends a great deal of time boating on Chesapeake Bay and enjoys body surfing. She plans to enter New York University this fall.

CARL BORACK - 1969 NATIONAL FOIL CHAMPION

By Dan Lyons

One of our youngest foil champions is Carl Borack. A seasoned and well traveled competitor at only 21 years of age this vigorous and engaging fellow is clearly established at the top of American fencing. While his first exposure to fencing was at the Westside Jewish Community Center in Los Angeles at age 10, he began serious work at 14 when he joined the Salle du Nord. Though earning letters in football and basketball, he decided to give those sports up for fencing in his senior year. The lure of a trip to Rotterdam for the Under 20 World Championships was irresistible.

In capturing his first title Carl pressed all of his opponents from the start of each bout to the very end. Losing only one bout in the finals his superiority was clearly evident. He moved forward working against the blade or using a series of disengages and following with a quick lunge or reprise to score. He appeared to have unbounded confidence to get a touch when he needed it and went to work for it. The result was there for everybody to see. When asked by this reporter whether he ever thought of taking a step backward, he said he would have if he had been attacked by anyone.

Gaining the championship was important to Carl, but he unhesitatingly said that his greatest fencing honor came when he stood with our Pan-American epee team and received a gold medal while the Star Spangled Banner was played. He says that he and his coach, Mel North, form a team that has been together since he started fencing. Carl looks to becoming a ranking internationalist and says that he and his coach are striving for that goal.

He graduated from Beverly Hills High School in 1965 and attended UCLA and San Fernando State College. He left college with one year to go for his degree because he found an interesting job as an Assistant producer and writer of TV shows. Someday he hopes to be a producer and do his own shows. Carl has one brother and his father is a business acquisition and merger consultant. And it's true, Carl is single.

The international calendar for 1969-70 has been approved. This includes the Martini-Rossi N.Y.A.C. International competition for New York in April 17, 18, and 19, 1970.

REPORT ON THE 1969 NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

by Joseph Elliott,
Chairman, Bout Committee

Tournament was held in a group of buildings located on the campus of Valley College, in Van Nuys. Buildings just had to be the three available. We all know Southern Division Chairman Sal deBellis, selected for the location, wanted to have an office in a blaze of glory, but not an outdoor barbecue have enjoyable? Pentathletes come to the heat the least, and even athletes thrive and gain strength from it as they passed. Perhaps they secretly wish Illis in the selection of the site.

When protests were received and the Chairman of the Bout Committee concerned appeals of entries not being postmarked later than 7 days requested entry based upon alleged on the part of the divisional secretary sufficient reason to absolve the fencer of his personal responsibility on time (Part IX, chapter 2) second protest dealt with interference of the closing date as stated in the fencing. The league counsel ruled that the committee was legally correct in giving entries postmarked on or before, but which were received after the future entry deadline announcement would state "... postmarked not ... " to avoid misunderstanding.

On a tournament like this takes a lot of dedicated people who rarely get more than a token thanks. So, the more you see Beverly Lamont, tell her she did a fine job in almost single-handedly running the program. Remember Joe Abel, Valley College Coach, in charge of the facilities, and Ben Bower drove a trailer load of copper from Tucson. Old reliable Bower was ably assisted in the department by George Bower, Jr., Don Robinson. Sal deBellis is the Organizing Committee with the assistance of Eugene Spencer, Scoring and timing was handled after by Jo Hedman with the assistance of Gerald and Nanette La Verne. 90501. Carlos Evertes and Virginia de Pew did swell jobs with arrangements for Gala and Public Relations, respectively. Muriel Bower chaired the Hospitality Committee and Sondra Spencer arranged for decorations. A special note of thanks to our hosts at Valley College, lead by Lois Ann McCrackin. Marion Behrend and Jazef Janssen helped tremendously, and even took time off from work to assist at the gym. Thanks to these Friends of Fencing. My personal thanks to Ralph Zimmerman.

Those who attended the Gala enjoyed a nice meal and a really great band. During one of the breaks, Natalia Clovis treated us to several Cuban songs and ballads—accompanying herself on the guitar.

One of the real complaints of the tournament was the lack of good directors in the early rounds. It was very difficult to persuade fencers to remain an extra round—as soon as they were eliminated they made a beeline for the swimming pool.

MEN'S FOIL

Entry of 71, 18 byes in the first round

Carl Borack, as with all of the other individual champions, reaped the rewards of hard training and frequent exposure to foreign competition. Carl has been threatening to win something since 1967 when he first appeared in the Epee finals and placed third. New faces in the finals this year are Mannino, Carfagno, and Lang. Ed Carfagno seemed to be competing in every event - and doing well in all of them. The absence of Olympic team members Checkes and Cohen, plus the removal of the perennial Richards and Okawa from the running (they both are now professionals, weakened the tournament. Foil Champion in 1967 and 1968 (did he really learn all of that from a book??), Heizaburo Okawa, had to be content with watching from the stands. You know what he was thinking. Three man barrages in all rounds considerably delayed the event and caused the Sabre finals to begin late. Carl Borack was the only one who did not seem to mind.

MEN'S FOIL TEAM

13 Teams: Direct Elimination to Final of 4
Jim Moss' formerly Franklin Fencers have pulled an upset in every Nationals. They started the event off with a bang by trouncing Salle Santelli 7-2. Everyone held their breath while the touches were being counted and... sure enough, they came up number one into the direct eliminations. AFRA (nobody ever explained what it meant but it must be strong medicine!) then squeaked by Pentathlon on an out-standing performance by Simmons.

WOMEN'S INDIVIDUAL

Entry of 70 with 18 Byes

White, at 17, is probably the fencer ever to win the women's at least as far back as Marion can remember. Three former champions watching Ruth from the audience: 1968 Champion; Marion Lloyd 28, 32; and Maria Cerra Tishman, who lost only one bout in each an excellent record, one deserving championship.

WOMEN'S TEAM

12 Teams: Direct Elimination to Final of 4

Salle Santelli won the championship with but one loss to Faulkner in the preliminary round. This loss set the stage for a never intended, early confrontation between the two top seeded teams in the event: Salle de Nord (seeded 1st) and Salle Santelli (2nd). Faulkner's team was obviously hotter than their seventh-ranked seed, as evidenced by the scores in the preliminary round. They cooled a bit in the direct eliminations and in a small way vindicated the bout committee's original seed by losing to the 8th ranked team, Marki. Nord came out of the preliminary round perhaps a bit overconfident, and ran head-on into a 'smarting' Santelli. The result, a successful defense of their title by Salle Santelli.

EPEE INDIVIDUAL

Entry of 60 with 12 Byes

Steve Netburn is our new champion. He has been moving steadily upward 'on the outside'. Many of us have read reports of his fine European performances in this magazine but we have not felt his point until recently. Only two of the 1968 Olympic Team members participated and they placed 1, 2. Pesthy narrowly missed not only first place but another first as well — four wins in a row. A strong contingent of experienced fencers led by Carfagno, Christe, Masin and Goldberg helped to provide an exciting finals. The Under-19 Champion, Bozek, sounded a warning for the future. He fenced well, handing Netburn one of his two defeats. Confidence that this was the 'Year of the Netburn', was such that the Bout Committee Chairman 'arranged' for Pesthy and Netburn to meet in the final bout. Good show, I'd say!

SABRE

Entry of 52 with 12 Byes

Everyone who witnessed the presentation of medals at the Sabre finals must have come away feeling a victor himself. Mrs. Orban, mother of our new Champion, Alex, made the presentations and won the hearts of fencers and spectators alike. Only recently arrived in the US, Mrs. Orban probably felt prouder than Alex that this was his second Championship (1965, too!), and she showed it. The finish was actually much closer than a count of bout victories would indicate. There is a four bout difference between first and fourth, but only a three touch difference, the first four fencers all received from 24 to 27 hits. Resch entered the finals a strong favorite, having qualified first in each round and with only three hits received in his four semi-final victories. Then there was Borack; who told him he was a three-weapon man?

SABRE TEAM

Entry of 8 Teams: Direct Elimination to Final of Two

The NYAC, with three Olympians (individual champions of 1967, 68, and 69) for good measure, successfully defended their title. Their victory came as no great surprise considering the team composition. What did surprise everyone was their opponent, AFRA, in the fence-off for first place. AFRA pulled a real upset in the first elimination round by defeating Salle Csiszar on touches. Simmons put in another fine performance during this match. Next year should be a sellout crowd.

REPORT OF DIRECTORS' COMMISSION

By William Latzko

The Directors' Commission has been active in several areas. The main function of this body is the classification of directors in the United States. However, in addition to this the Directors' Commission has also assisted various divisions in setting up directors' schools by suggesting training programs.

The Directors' Commission consists of all of the internationally classified directors, the Sectional Vice Presidents, and a member designated by the President of the League. From among this group an executive committee of five people was selected to handle the affairs of the Directors' Commission. Last year the Board approved that this group operate for four years to correspond with the terms of the International Commission of Directors. The present members of this executive committee are Laszlo Pongo, Chairman; William Latzko, Secretary; Dr. Daniel Bukantz, Ralph Goldstein and George Worth, members.

The Directors' Commission no longer classifies technicians since this is now a function of the Technical Committee. Those who wish to be so rated should contact the chairman of the Technical Committee.

The A.F.L.A. List of Directors is based on the same principle as the International Directors' List: Class 1 represents the lowest category in ranking and Class 3 the highest. A special class marked "C" was established to signify that the individual holds an F.I.E. director's license. To obtain such a license it is necessary to first hold an A.F.L.A. class 3 license and then to apply for examination by international officials. The examination, which is in French, is conducted in two parts: theoretical and practical. The examination is given only by appointment, at major international meets, such as the World Championships or the Martini-Rossi International Tournament.

AMERICAN FENCING

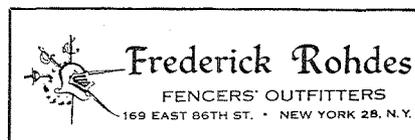

The A.F.L.A. classifications are as follows:
Class 1 and 1A: Those holding classification 1 are qualified to direct division competitions through the quarter finals. Those with classification 1A are qualified to direct all division competitions through the finals. The division is charged with determining these classifications and publishing a list of directors whom they have classified.

Class 2: Class 2 directors are qualified to direct sectional competitions through the finals as well as the finals of any divisional competition. To become a class 2 director you must first be a class 1A director in your division then pass an examination by the Sectional Executive Committee.

Class 3 and C: Class 3 and Class C directors are qualified to direct any event, including the semi-finals and finish of the National Championships. To obtain a Class 3 license, the candidate must hold a Class 3 license and be recommended for examination by the Sectional Executive Committee. The Directors' Commission will arrange to examine the individual at the National Championships or at the Martini-Rossi International Tournaments.

In any Group 1 competition, it is mandatory that the highest classified available directors be used. The Bout Committee may relieve these directors with lower rated individuals as required to avoid overworking them. The same procedure is recommended in all competitions.

Listed below is a revised and updated list of all directors in the United States. This list was compiled by asking all the divisional Chairmen to send in the list of their Class 1 and Class 1A Directors, all Section Chairmen to send in the list of their Class 2 Directors, added to the existing list of Class 3 and International Directors.

AMERICAN FENCING

"come, begin;
 And you the Judges, bear a wary eye."

(Hamlet: Act V, Scene II)
