Two New "Buzzards"

We are happy to announce that our Vice-President, John T. Honeycutt, and the Chairman of the West Point Division, Fred R. Weber, were promoted to full Colonels with date of rank of 30 December 1950. It was a nice way to start the new year, and our best wishes to them. The new "chickens" ought to be worth a drink the next time you meet them, and if you're called to the Army tell the Supply Sergeant to fit you properly or you'll sick them on him.

NOTE!

Our next issue will be a special one for the National Championships. The deadline is May 9th.

Our congratulations and best wishes to Vincent Surdi on his recent marriage. Surdi, a member of the N. J. Division, is doing splendid work coaching the Bloomfield High School fencing team.

SPORTSMANSHIP

Elsewhere you can read about the Championship won by Tibor Nyilas in the sabre event at Buenos Aires, and the details of our foil and sabre team victories. The laurels which our team gained at the Pan American Games have of course thrilled every one of us, but we believe the greatest source of pride is the true sportsmanship displayed by it under circumstances which were sometimes difficult. The conduct of our men reflected greater honor on us than did all their successes in the score-sheet.

We have all fenced long enough to know that championships won or lost are only things of the moment to be forgotten in the excitement of new challenges to our imaginations; but the example of sportsmanship on the strip makes a deep and lasting impression. We believe our team has set such an example and will be remembered with respect by all the competing nations.

Outstanding among a group of true sportsmen was Tibor Nyilas whose ready wit and general behavior prompted a remark from the audience, with a note of astonishment: "Why, those fellows from the U. S. fence as if they were really enjoying themselves!"

Nyilas' conduct received special mention. Mr. Paul Anspach, former President of the F.I.E. and one of the Deans of international fencing, made a special award for sportsmanship and presented him with a special F.I.E. medal. This, it seems to us, is the highest honor awarded at Buenos Aires.

A NUESTROS AMIGOS DEL SUR

En este numero publicamos un informe completo de los Primeros Juegos Deportivos Pan Americanos.

Cuando fue seleccionado el titulo de esta revista, teniamos la esperanza de que llegaría a ser el medio de dar a conocer los resultados de las mas importantes competencias de esgrima en todo el continente americano. En particular nos interesaría informaciones sobre los campeonatos nacionales de cada pais.

Es esta la primera oportunidad de publicar los detalles de un torneo internacional verdaderamente Pan Americano, aunque el ano pasado tuvimos el gusto de presentar en estas paginas un articulo sobre los Juegos Deportivos Centro Americanos y del Caribe.

Rogamos de nuevo a nuestros lectores en las Americas del Sur y del Centro que se sirvan enviarnos los informes que deseamos, asegurandoles que las diferencias de idioma no haran obstaculo a su comunicacion a nuestros hermanos de armas en el hemisferio occidental.

THE FIRST PAN-AMERICAN GAMES

By MIGUEL A. DE CAPRILES
Captain-Manager, U.S. Fencing Team

Argentina and the United States fought a remarkably even battle for top honors in the men's fencing events at Buenos Aires. We won two team and one individual titles; they took two individuals and one team. They had a slightly higher "point" total; we had a better scoring average for our smaller team. Had Polly Crous been able to compete in the women's individual, it seems reasonably certain that she would have been the chief threat to Argentina's Elsa Irigoyen, the outstanding foils-woman in a field of seven. Of the remaining ten countries which participated in the fencing events, Mexico, Cuba, and Brazil were the only ones to carry home any prizes.

When the U. S. Olympic Committee authorized Fritz Weber, manager of the pentathlon team, and myself to compete, they really increased the size of our team from six to eight, and made it possible for us to enter a reasonably good combination in each of the three weapons. We knew we had a sabre team which ought to win; we hoped to place in foil and epee as well. Our big thrill, therefore, was the unexpected team victory in foil, which set the pattern for an extraordinary record of success in the subsequent events. The competitions were rugged, particularly in the epee team, which began at 8 A.M. one day and finished at 2 A.M. the following morning without a break for lunch or dinner. This was tough on our team which contained three men whose average age is forty-five, but we cannot blame this fact for our defeat, since the Argentine epee team was a little older—and of course a little better. In the individuals, we entered two men in foil, two in epee, and three in sabre; all of them made the finals and all of them placed among the first six (the number counted for unofficial Olympic "points"). Every one of our eight competitors came home with at least two medals (one of them a gold medal). Every one fenced close to top form. The whole team exhibited a buoyant team spirit which was the envy of all our rivals. Perhaps what is more important, our team was probably the best behaved, most courteous group of sportsmen at the games, and their conduct reflected great credit on the United States. I am humbly grateful for the honor of leading such a group.

Under the circumstances, it is difficult to select any member of the team for special praise. George Worth, the only one to fence a single weapon, was the deputy captain of the team and assumed the major portion of the managerial duties; he was our most active official, directing many of the foil events; he was also our high scorer in the sabre team championship, losing the individual title to Tibor Nyilas by a single touch. Nyilas, with three gold medals, was by common consent regarded as the outstanding swordsman of the whole tournament not only for the elegance and efficiency of his style in foil and sabre but also for the impeccable sportsmanship which earned for him a special F.I.E. Medal awarded by Mr. Paul Anspach. Nat Lubell, with four medals, was our most reliable foilsman; he came close to a tie for first in the individual, acquiring a growing authority in his fencing which should be a great factor in his future international competitions; I am quite impressed with his potential in epee. Byron Krieger, who fenced 71 bouts in five events, was superb in the clutches, rising far above his normal game when the chips were down; his victory over Felix Galimi in the foil team was the turning point of the match, and his victory over Huergo in the sabre team was almost as vital. Fritz Weber, nicknamed "the U.S. armored division," was outstanding in the epee team, with a remarkable record which included four 3-0 victories in a single match, and he was undefeated in his sabre assignments. Albert Wolff kept pace with Weber until the final team match in epee, did well in foil, and finished a creditable fifth in the individual epee. Ed Vebell, handicapped by a painful back-muscle injury mid-way through the foil team final round-robin which forced his withdrawal and permitted us to make only limited use of his abilities in the epee team event, came back in the epee individual to earn the bronze medal; he missed a tie for first only on a freak touch in his bout with Ramos. In my opinion, Vebell demonstrated a real talent for international fencing. Despite some technical deficiencies, his fine sense of time and distance and his cool generalship enabled him to dominate the play in the great majority of his bouts. As for myself, I am glad to report that I was able to hold up my end in the three team finals; I had the good fortune to win my last bout in each weapon, and two of these bouts clinched the victories earned by my teammates. I can think of no more pleasant final chapter to my twenty years of international competition.

A special word of praise is due, however, to the Directoire Technique which included three experienced and impartial men (Anspach of Belgium, Mercier of France, and our own Tracy Jaekel), who saw to it that the competitions were run on a true international basis free from domination by any one country. Our confidence in the fairness and ability of these men left us free to concentrate on the fencing. Finally, I should mention that the wise counsel and moral support of Brooks Parker, member of the International Olympic Committee, helped us over our most serious difficulties and was a large factor in maintaining our psychological balance.

Foil Team Championship

February 27, 1951 (8 teams)

A well-balanced U. S. team (Lubell, Nyilas, Krieger, de Capriles, Vebell, and Wolff) upset the very strong and favored Argentine delegation in an exciting final match. After a see-saw start, with the Argentines leading 4-3, Krieger faced the powerful Galimi, who later won the individual crown. Krieger rose to great heights and tied the match by winning, 5-4. Lubell then defeated Massini to take the lead which, though threatened, was never relinquished. With the score 8-6, de Capriles defeated Saucedo 5-3 to clinch the victory. The hero of the final match was Nyilas, who scored three victories. Cuba placed third and Mexico fourth.

Nat Lubell was undefeated in his first 16 bouts, and ended with an 18-2 record, which was the best individual performance of the event.

Individual Foil Championship

Feb. 28, 1951 (26 contestants)

Felix Galimi, idol of the Argentine press, nosed out two excellent left-handers, Rodriguez of Argentina and Lubell of the United States, to win the individual foil title, although he needed a questionable victory over young Menendez of Cuba to avoid a fence-off. Galimi lacks the mobility of the top European foils-men, but he was the best technician in a fine field and the result ran true to form. The luster of his victory was dimmed by his stubborn refusal to fence unless the otherwise neutral jury included an Argentine judge, an incident which held up the final, for over an hour and at one time threatened to disrupt the whole fencing program. In contrast, the gallant Rodriguez, who edged out Lubell for second place on touches for, exchanged his silver medal for Lubell's bronze medal, in token of his admiration and friendship for our leading foilsmen.

Krieger, after losing several close ones, finished strongly to take sixth place.

SUMMARIES
Preliminaries

(Contestants in team finals given bye to semi-final round.)

Final

1. Felix GALIMI, Argentina, 7-1; 2. RODRIGUEZ, Argentina, 6-2 (29 vs., 38 for); 3. LUBELL, U.S.A., 6-2 (29 vs., 35 for); 4. Fulvio GALIMI, Argentina, 5-3; 5. RAMOS, Mexico, 4-4; 6. KRIEGER, U.S.A., 3-5 (28 vs.); 7. MENENDEZ, Cuba, 3-5 (33 vs.); 8. BLANDO, Colombia, 2-6; 9. ALESSANDRI, Brazil, 0-8.

Women's Foil Championship

Mar. 1, 1951 (7 contestants)

Elsa Irigoyen, Argentine champion, had no difficulty in winning the Pan-American title over her two team-mates, one Mexican and three Brazilians. The quality of the fencing was far below the standard of the United States national championships.

The team event was not contested, since only two teams were on hand. In a friendly match, Argentina shut out Brazil, 10-0.

SUMMARIES
Preliminaries

1. IRIGOYEN, Argentina, 6-0; 2. ANTEQUEDA, Argentina, *4-2 (13 vs., 22 for); 3. ROSITTO, Argentina, *4-2 (13 vs., 22 for); 4. MAYORA DEENA, Mexico, 3-3; 5. ZIBOROFF, Brazil, 2-4 (18 vs.); 6. XAVIER, Brazil, 2-4 (21 vs.); 7. HERZOG, Brazil, 0-6.

(*) ANTEQUEDA d. ROSITTO 4-3 for second place.

Epee Team Championship

Mar. 2, 1951 (10 teams)

The Argentine epee team (Villamil, Simonetti, Saucedo, Diaz Arnesto, Guido Lavalle, and Repetto) scored a well-earned victory, 8-3, over the United States (Weber, Wolff, de Capriles, Lubell, Krieger, and Vebell) in the final match of the longest competition on the program. Two stunning upsets characterized the start of the six-team final round-robin, when Brazil defeated the United States 9-7 and Mexico defeated Cuba 8-7. Both of the beaten teams had to make an uphill fight to remain within striking distance of the Argentines. Cuba rose to great heights to conquer the champions, 8-7, but then lost to our team, 10-6, so that the deciding match was again fought between Argentina and the United States. Simonetti, the least proficient Argentine from a technical viewpoint, but a remarkable athlete with lightning-fast reflexes after nearly 18 hours of competition, won three bouts to lead his team to victory; while Villamil won two and had a double loss with Lubell. The United States placed second on bouts won, over Cuba and Mexico who followed in that order.

Weber's 20 victories and Wolff's 17 were the top performances for the United States. Lubell, who replaced Vebell in the crucial matches fenced 19 bouts, thus bringing his total to 52 in the first three events.

SUMMARIES

(3-3 bouts were scored as double losses, so that several matches were won with 8 victories.)

PreliminariesPool I: U.S.A., MEXICO, PANAMA, GUATEMALA.

1. U.S.A. d. GUATEMALA 12-4. (U.S.A.: Weber 4-0, Vebell 3-1, Lubell 3-1, Wolff 2-2; GUATEMALA: Chocano 2-2, Castilla 1-3, Soberon 1-3, Lopez 0-4.)

2. MEXICO d. PANAMA 11-5. (MEXICO: Meraz 4-0, Mondragon 3-1, Ramos 2-2, Valero 2-2; PANAMA: DeLeon 2-2, Medina 2-2, Quiroz 1-3, Tovar 0-4.)

Individual Epee Championship

Mar. 4, 1951 (29 contestants)

Antonio Villamil, of Argentina, the finest epeeist in the field, defeated Benito Ramos Ramos, of Mexico, 3-2 in the fence-off for the individual epee title. Villamil's record of 16-3 in the team events and 17-2 in the individuals was clearly the best; but Ramos had performed indifferently in the team competition, had reached the final only a four-way fence-off and had eked out five 3-2 victories in the final to tie Villamil's score. Villamil led 2-0, then Ramos scored, and a double touch settled the issue. Third place went to Vebell of the United States, on touches over Saucedo of Argentina. Wolff placed fifth.

SUMMARIES

Sabre Team Championship

Mar. 5, 1951 (9 teams)

As expected, the United States sabre team (Worth, Nyilas, de Capriles, Krieger, Weber, Lubell) won the "rubber match" with Argentina, 9-6, after these two teams had outdistanced the rest of the field. But the Argentines put up a stiff fight, and every American suffered at least one defeat. Worth's three victories paced our team; he won the first bout, and the United States never lost its lead. Nyilas and Krieger won when a defeat would have meant a tied match. Then, with the score at 8-6, de Capriles again clinched the victory, losing the first two touches and then scoring five in a row over Aguero. The strong showing of the Argentines was largely due to Pomini, their champion, who won his three bouts against the United States to finish with an undefeated record for the entire competition; it was a pity that his scheduled bout with Nyilas was the last on the program and did not have to be fenced. Brazil, which had squeezed through the preliminaries by a one-touch margin over Peru, defeated Cuba 9-5 for third place.

The leading United States scorers for the event were Worth (15-2), Krieger (12-6) and Nyilas (10-1).

Individual Sabre Championship

Mar. 7, 1951 (24 contestants)

Dr. Tibor Nyilas, United States sabre champion, added the Pan-American title to his laurels by winning a three-way fence-off for first place, with George Worth of the United States placing second, and Molnar of Brazil third. The two Americans were rated 1-2 from the beginning, but the spunky Hungarian-Brazilian defeated them both to gain his first-place tie. Then the roof caved in, and both Nyilas and Worth shut out Molnar. In the championship bout, with the score at 4-all and the audience holding its breath, Nyilas slowly reached out and clipped Worth on the wrist. The third U. S. finalist, Krieger, finished sixth.

The three Argentine entries also reached the final, but Pomini suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury in an early bout and finished seventh. The eighth finalist, Lopez of Venezuela, was out of his class. On the other hand, Sarria of Peru, who rated a place in the finals on the quality of his game, lost the chance when Molnar defeated him 5-4 in a semi-final fence-off.

Women's Pan-American Tryout

By JOHN C. MCKEE

The Pan-American Games Committee authorized a women's tryout in the hopes that female representation might be authorized and could be financed. The tryout was held at the Los Angeles A. C. on February 4th and drew seven entries which included five of the first-ten ranking in the nation.

Miss Polly Craus, of Faulkner's Falcons, won the event after a fence-off with her club-mate Miss Bernadine Meislahn. The complete results were as follows:

Miss Craus 5-1; Miss Meislahn 5-1; Mrs. Muriel Bower, Los Angeles A.C., 4-2; Mrs. Maxine Mitchell, Cavaliers, 3-3; Miss Janice Lee York, unattached, 2-4; Mrs. Matilda Clem, Los Angeles A.C., 1-5; Miss Barbara Baxter, Los Angeles A.C., 1-5.

The event was directed by Harold Corbin, and the jury was completed by Frank Joyner, Arthur Koye, Fred Linkmeyer and Sewell Schurtz.

(Ed Note: We were indeed sorry that money could not be raised to send Polly to new triumphs.)

"Let's Get Even And Report On The Captain"

Miguel de Capriles carried the flag for the United States delegation to the First Pan American Games. And from that moment there was a glorious blend of the American flag (and all it stands for) and Miguel de Capriles—his personality, leadership, fencing skill.

Miguel's personality laid the solid foundation for his success in the other two qualities. His personality brought the best out of the boys at the right moment. It captivated friend and foe—and there were lots of "foe" on the first day, although the number diminished as "Mike" grew in stature. He commanded respect for all us "gringos" and he established the bridgehead, to the initial antagonism of the Argentines, to the neutral understanding of the F.I.E. representatives, and to the warm friendship of contestants and officials from Brazil, Chile, Cuba, Mexico and the rest of the participating countries.

Miguel the captain: It would be easy to say that the results speak for themselves. They don't. There are many ways to the first place. It can be achieved by good fencing despite weak leadership, or vice versa. But the smooth combination of good fencing and good leadership is ideal. To get all the men to pull together in harmony, to iron out all their individual quirks, phobias, superstitions and complexes, was a splendid job of understanding both the fencing and the fencers. Kindness, firmness, psychology and luck were Mike's four horsemen which trampled over the toughest opposition.

Miguel the fencer: At the end of the competition someone shook Mike's hand and said, "I have seen scores of better fencers, but none greater." How true that was in Buenos Aires! Doing the triple job of captain, manager and competitor, he participated in all three team events. Despite limited opportunities to practice he fenced the deciding bouts in both foil and sabre before a hostile audience and produced the winning combination of stamina, experience, tactics and courage.

He was inspired from the words "En garde," and he in turn inspired his team mates.

The winner and still champion, by the unanimous decision of the team: Miguel de Capriles, U. S. A.

A member of Mike's team.

Final Pan-American Tryout

The deciding competitions for places on the Pan-American Team were held during the Lincoln's birthday week-end and brought to New York the leading fencers from several divisions. Only six men could be chosen, but the team had available the services of Col. Fred R. Weber who went to the Games with the Pentathlon Team, and Miguel de Capriles who went as Captain-Manager-Coach.

In the women's event, Miss Polly Craus was chosen as our sole representative, but unfortunately could not make the trip.

I.F.A. CHAMPIONSHIPS

The 54th Annual Championships of the Intercollegiate Fencing Association, held at West Point, were very well organized by the Bout Committee led by Col. F. R. Weber. Thirteen colleges participated in the two-day event and considerable credit for the smooth operation must go to the many officials who gave their time and to Cadet Clinton Grange who supervised a large group of cadets assigned as scorers, announcers, timers and runners.

Columbia dominated the event, winning the 3-weapon crown, the foil team and individual events, and tying with Pennsylvania and Yale for the sabre team title. The epee team and individual was won by Navy, while Yale added to its laurels by winning the sabre individual.

With the exception of the sabre, every team title was won by a clear-cut margin. The individual events, on the other hand, were decided in each instance by a fence-off.

Yale's victories were its first in more than a decade. It had last won the sabre team and individual titles in 1937, and this year's titles were particularly heart-warming to "Bobby" Grasson who has just completed 30 years as coach of the university.

Pennsylvania's sabre team title and its very strong bid for the individual foil were a great tribute to the ability of Lajos Csiszar who has only been coach of Penn for the past two years. It is the first team crown in that school's history, and it had not won any championship since 1925 when J. P. Applebaum won the individual epee.

Navy's two titles, while impressive, were not as much as its coach Joseph Fiens had a right to expect. The Navy team had shown well-balanced strength during the season and was made up largely of veteran seniors.

Columbia's performance was of particular credit to its coach Servando Velarde in that the majority of his team was made up of sophomores and juniors.

Mid-West

By SCOTT D. BRECKINRIDGE
Vice-President, AFLA

The southern group of the Mid-West section held its semi-final round for the Pan American Games tryouts at Dayton, Ohio. The tournament organization of the Miami Valley Division made it possible to complete all fencing in one day. The results were as follows:

Foil

Scott Breckinridge, Kentucky Division
Alan Solomon, Kentucky Division
Ken Balridge, Cincinnati Division

Epee

Albert Wolff, Kentucky Division
Dan McKinney, Columbus Division
William Seiller, Kentucky Division

Sabre

Ross Saye, Cincinnati Division
Carl Burge, Kentucky Division
Herbert Reisenfeld, Cincinnati Division

Northern Ohio

By D. S. THOMPSON

Madison Dods, Sword and Mask, won the open foil championship for the tenth time. Seventeen competed, and the final of seven ended in a four-way tie among Dods, E. P. Quigley, J. Shelly and R. Glowacki—each with 4 wins and 2 losses. The first fence-off found Dods and Quigley tied again, and on the second fence-off Dods defeated Quigley 5-2. Shelly and Glowacki tied for third on bouts and touches.
